Isaiah Berlin was born in Riga, now capital of Latvia, in 1909. When he was six, his family moved to Russia; there in 1917, in Petrograd, he witnessed both Revolutions – Social Democratic and Bolshevik. In 1921 his family came to England, and he was educated at St Paul’s School and Corpus Christi College, Oxford. At Oxford he was a Fellow of All Souls, a Fellow of New College, Professor of Social and Political Theory and founding President of Wolfson College. He died in 1997.

Henry Hardy, in addition to co-editing this volume, has edited fourteen other books by Berlin (including all but the first of those listed above), and The Proper Study of Mankind (co-edited with Roger Hausheer), an anthology drawn from previous volumes. From 1977 to 1990 he was an editor at Oxford University Press. He is now a Fellow of Wolfson College, Oxford, where he is working on an edition of Berlin’s letters whose first volume appeared in 2004.

Aileen Kelly, introducer and co-editor of this volume, received her D.Phil. in Russian Studies from Oxford and is now a Reader in Slavonic Studies at Cambridge University and a Fellow of King’s College. She is the author of Mikhail Bakunin: A Study in the Psychology and Politics of Utopianism (1982), Toward Another Shore: Russian Thinkers between Necessity and Chance (1998) and Views from the Other Shore: Essays on Herzen, Chekhov, and Bakhtin (1999).
